

The Providence Group – Atlanta's 3rd Largest Home Builder

Building Award Winning Designs in Great Locations

Warren Jolly and Pete Jolly, Owners

The Providence Group is the homebuilding arm of the Atlanta-based Jolly Development. Today the company offers homes in every price range, from entry-level condominiums to luxury townhomes and single family detached homes, with a variety of architectural styles.

"The Providence Group's current product lines include mid-rise condominiums with high-end finishes, several mixed-use developments that include single-family detached homes, and two- and three-style story townhomes," Principal Warren Jolly says. "We were the first to design and build the award-winning brownstone stacked condominiums in Atlanta that are so popular in the Northeast. Diversification is the key to our business model."

The Providence Group and Jolly Development's ability to consistently develop successful 'leading-edge' designs in great locations is the result of careful planning, and a clear vision that surpasses conventional building practices, "adds Pete Jolly. "You can expect exceptional finish levels in every Providence Group home."

The Providence Group is a long-time member of the Greater Atlanta Homebuilder's Association. Over the past several years, the company has won numerous Gold and Silver Professionalism Awards from the prestigious Greater Atlanta Homebuilder Association's annual awards program honoring excellence in the homebuilding industry.
